

WOMAN IN CADANAS.

Cecil Charles Visits Competitor's Men in Prison.

AFTERWARDS FLED FOR LIFE

Spanish Officers Eyed Her Closely While She Was in the Fortress.

CONFISCATED ALL HER MANUSCRIPTS

This Letter to The World Sent Just in Time to Avoid Being Seized by Weyler's Minions.

TWENTY-THREE MEN IN ONE CELL.

A Few Stentley Words with Laborer and Melton—Sanguily Need Not Complain.

Cecil Charles, the woman correspondent who went to Cuba to study the situation, and has just returned to New York, escaped with difficulty alive. She went as far as the trocha and interviewed the Cuban Gen. Zayas, who has been reported killed. Returning to Havana, she spent a day in the Cabanas prison and visited the Competitor's crew, confined there.

The authorities became suspicious of her and ordered that she be detained as an emissary from the revolutionary party in the United States.

All her manuscript was confiscated, but she managed to save herself by leaving from the rear of the house where she was stopping and walking in the blazing sun without food or drink for twenty-four hours. She did not have time even to take a change of clothing.

Just before her papers were seized she had sent to The World the following account of her visit to the Cabanas fortress:

(Copyright, 1896, by the Press Publishing Company, New York World.) (Special Correspondence of The World.) HAVANA, Cuba, July 26.—For twenty-four hours I have been unable to read or write or indeed do much else than sit with a compress over my eyes, which are burning, bloodshot and swollen from the irritation of sunlight and horrible heat in the confinement of a prison, where I have spent a Sunday.

It is a short sail or row across from the Caballera wharf to Casa Blanca and the boats are full of people laughing and chatting away—thanks to the sanguine Latin temperament, and the little presents as they may be permitted to offer the prisoners after a rigid scrutiny of packages and baskets.

It is a long climb up to the fortress gates. At every turn the sentry looks at you and while the cleanliness of his clothing may not be on a par with the immaculate swept stone-studded roadway, that perhaps is not his fault, and at least he is not wearing a top hat and his bayonet fixed. Nobody offered any objection as I climbed that pathway, passed the guard and lingered at the top of the steps while they opened the door and shook out the clothing bag I had brought for a relative. Still, I suppose it was the first time a Fifth Avenue tailor-made dress had been seen in the sentry's eyes.

At the right of the central square where I found myself, as also at the left, I saw a high fence, with gates in the center, at which sentries were posted. I saw the crowd to the right, the sentry swung the gates open with a grim movement and we passed through.

At the second grating I found Alfredo Laborer. He was a blond, with a high forehead, and a pair of eyes that were as blue as the sky. He was looking at me with a friendly smile, and I saw that he was not a prisoner, but a man of the world.

At the grating door of the next cell I found a man who was looking at me with a friendly smile, and I saw that he was not a prisoner, but a man of the world.

MADRID, Aug. 6.—Such terrible tales of sickness, privation, incompetency and mismanagement, to say nothing of the Spanish lack of success in the Spanish soldiers serving in Cuba, to belated at home that a feeling which relates ill to the Government is gaining strength throughout Spain day by day.

The Spanish Government has been so far from realizing that there is widespread and growing alarm at the Government's inability to cope with the situation in Cuba. The announcement that a large Spanish army corps is to be heavily retrained is regarded as a confession of weakness, an admission that the Cubans are gaining.

Agents of the Cubans have little difficulty in causing outbreaks when they point to the Spanish lack of success in the Spanish soldiers serving in Cuba, to belated at home that a feeling which relates ill to the Government is gaining strength throughout Spain day by day.

The Republicans also are active, and the combined movements are making more headway than the Government would admit, although it is betraying fear. It has ordered the prefects to promptly suppress demonstrations and to have no hesitation in calling out the military.

Similar outbreaks with rioters have occurred already, and many arrests have been made. The rounds in Valencia are patrolled by vendarmes, troops are pushing toward the frontier, and the apparently unnecessary hardships the Spanish troops are compelled to undergo.

Two thousand five hundred trousers makers have decided to go on strike late last night. An excited meeting in New York City resulted in the formation of a Walking Trousers Makers' Union.

The trousers makers have the same general grievances as the children's jacket makers. Their wages have been gradually reduced and many sweat shops have begun business again.

They were in a very excitable mood last night. Some of the leaders are opposed to a strike. For a few weeks they have called meetings of the men at Congress Hall, in Stanton street, and at New Irving Hall, Tracy street, and at New Irving Hall, Tracy street, and at New Irving Hall, Tracy street.

Seventeen-year-old Isaac Tober, whose parents live at No. 52 Graham avenue, Brooklyn, went down to the pier at the foot of South Street about 6 o'clock last night with Henry Rothman, of No. 135 Third street, and Emil Kreuzman, of No. 65 Morrell street.

He took off his clothes and sat on the edge of the pier in a sunny mood while his companions baited. When Kreuzman came out of the water Tober climbed down on a float of the Seawall Club.

"You had better not go in. You know you cannot swim, and you will surely drown," said Kreuzman, and he moved towards him as if to prevent him from going into the water.

"Tober struck a brick," Emil, he said, "and I tried to stop him. I will bring you a brick from the pier and throw it at you. Now, boys, see me drown!" he cried to those on the pier.

Swimming he let go the hawser and made for the pier, but sank almost at once. When he came to the surface he called to Rothman, who was still in the water. Rothman swam to his side and seized him as he came up the second time.

Yell Miller, the leader of the striking vest-makers, said yesterday that she believed in strikes in the economic field as a general rule, but that the only effective strike against the trusts, the system could be at the ballot-box.

LODS UPSET LAND BILL.

Salisbury Government's Irish Measure Likely to Be Abandoned Now.

ATTENDANCE UNCOMMONLY LARGE.

Unionist Peers Cut in Overwhelming Number, Yet the Adverse Majority Was 60.

MEMBERS OF THE CABINET DISMAYED.

Bill Amended to Assume that All Improvements Belong to the Landlord.

(Copyright, 1896, by the Associated Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Government was defeated on the Irish Land bill in the House of Lords to-day by a majority of 60. The defeat, it is generally believed to-night, means the abandoning of the bill.

The bill came up in its committee stage, and there was a larger attendance of Peers than in any previous session of the House of Lords since the passing of the Home Rule bill before the body.

Some Lords had been so long absent that they had to be identified. The Public and the Press Galleries were packed, and there was a good attendance of Peers in the House of Lords.

The parties were very unequally represented, less than a dozen Liberal Lords being present, while there were more than a hundred Unionist Peers.

The debate soon developed a defeat of the Government on Viscount Temple's amendment that the several large clauses of each holding be ascertained and that the fair rent be based on the assumption that all improvements were made or acquired by the landlord.

The Marquis of Londonderry, the Earl of Mayo, the Earl of Winchelsea, the Duke of Abercorn and others supported the amendment, which was finally adopted by a vote of 127 to 67, amid great cheering.

Lord Rosebery, Earl Spencer, Baron Herschell and the Opposition peers supported the Government.

Several verbal amendments were then adopted. Viscount Inchiquin (Conservative) moved that no deduction be made in fair rent by reason of the mere right of occupation of the tenant.

The Marquis of Londonderry opposed this motion as unnecessary, but it was adopted by a vote of 107 to 67.

The Government defeat dismayed the Ministerial members of the Commons who heard the debate, and they rushed back to their chamber with the news, creating a sensation.

Lord Dunraven moved a new clause to the bill to facilitate landlord purchases of tenants' improvements.

Lord Lansdowne pronounced it a novel proposal, foreign to the scope of the bill.

Lord Dunraven thereupon withdrew his motion.

A long discussion followed on Lord Cloncurry's amendment to exclude from the bill the lands of the late Earl of Devonshire, which was adopted by a vote of 96 to 77.
